

How does Katsu differ from your understanding of a samurai? How does he perceive the image of the samurai? Why does he write his own story?